Sending your child on a solo flight can be a big step, and for parents, it often raises a lot of questions. One of the main things you'll need to know when booking a flight for your child is the Delta unaccompanied minor fee. Delta Airlines offers a special service for young travelers flying alone, ensuring they are well taken care of during the journey. But how much does this service cost, and what does it cover? Let's break it down.

In this blog, we'll discuss Delta's unaccompanied minor policy, the fees associated with the service, and how you can contact customer service for any assistance you might need.

Delta Airlines Unaccompanied Minor

Delta Airlines has a dedicated unaccompanied minor service for children aged 5 to 14 who are flying without an adult companion. The airline offers this service to ensure that young passengers are safely cared for during the flight, from the moment they check in until they are handed over to a designated adult at their destination.

What Is Delta's Policy on Unaccompanied Minors?

Delta's policy on unaccompanied minors is designed with safety and comfort in mind. Here are the key points you need to know:

Age Requirements: Delta defines an unaccompanied minor as a child between 5 and 14 years old. Children under 5 must be accompanied by an adult, while children aged 15 and older are not considered unaccompanied minors but can still fly alone.

Nonstop Flights Are Preferred: For safety reasons, Delta recommends booking direct flights for unaccompanied minors whenever possible. If a layover is unavoidable, Delta's staff will assist the child during their transfer between flights.

Additional Assistance: Delta staff will escort the unaccompanied minor through the entire airport process, from check-in and security to the gate and during boarding. Once on board, flight attendants will supervise the child throughout the flight.

Drop-off and Pick-up Procedures: When your child reaches their destination, they will only be handed over to a pre-designated adult. That adult must show valid identification to pick up the child.

Special Services: In case of delays or disruptions, Delta provides additional support for unaccompanied minors, ensuring they are well taken care of. You'll also receive regular updates on your child's flight status.

How Much is the Delta Unaccompanied Minor Fee?

The cost of the Delta unaccompanied minor fee generally ranges from $150 to $200 each way. This fee is in addition to the price of the child's ticket and covers the extra services provided to ensure the child's safety and comfort.

The fee typically includes:

Airport Assistance: A Delta representative will help your child through check-in, security, and to the gate.

In-Flight Supervision: Delta flight attendants will regularly check on your child and ensure they are safe and comfortable during the flight.

Arrival Assistance: Upon landing, the child will be escorted through the airport and handed over only to the designated adult.

It's important to note that the exact fee may vary depending on the route (international flights may cost more) and other factors. For the most accurate pricing, always check with Delta before booking or call customer service at 1-877-908-6960.
