If you're planning to send your child on a solo trip with Delta, one of the most important things to know is how much the Delta unaccompanied minor fee is and what it covers.

In this blog, we'll explore how much the fee costs, explain Delta's policy on unaccompanied minors, and show you how to contact customer service if you need assistance.

Delta Airlines Unaccompanied Minor

Delta Airlines offers a special service for unaccompanied minors — children aged 5 to 14 who are flying without an adult companion. This service is designed to ensure that your child is fully taken care of throughout their flight, from the moment they check in until they are handed off to a designated adult at their destination.

What is Delta's Policy on Unaccompanied Minors?

Delta's policy on unaccompanied minors aims to make traveling alone as safe and easy as possible for kids. Here are the most important details:

Age Requirements: Unaccompanied minor service is available for children between the ages of 5 and 14. Children aged 15 and older are not considered unaccompanied minors and do not need this service, although they can still travel solo without extra supervision.

Nonstop Flights Are Preferred: Delta recommends booking direct flights for unaccompanied minors when possible. This minimizes complications and ensures that the child is looked after throughout the trip. If a layover is necessary, Delta staff will ensure your child gets to their connecting flight safely.

Airport Assistance: From check-in to boarding, a Delta representative will escort your child through the airport, helping with security, navigating the terminal, and getting them to the gate.

In-Flight Supervision: Flight attendants are specially trained to assist unaccompanied minors, keeping an eye on them during the flight and providing extra support when needed.

Pick-Up and Drop-Off: When your child arrives at their destination, they will only be released to the person you've designated on their booking. This person must show valid identification before the child is handed over.

How Much is the Delta Unaccompanied Minor Fee?

The Delta unaccompanied minor fee typically ranges from $150 to $200 each way, depending on the flight route and destination. This fee covers the added services provided to ensure your child's safety and comfort during the entire trip. The service includes everything from airport assistance to in-flight supervision and secure hand-off upon arrival.

For children traveling internationally, the fee might be higher, so it's a good idea to check for specific details before booking. You can also reach Delta's customer service at 1-877-908-6960 to confirm the fee for your child's specific flight.
